

Cixin Wang, Ph.D.

Dr. Cixin Wang is an Associate Professor at the University of Maryland, College Park and earned her Ph.D. in School Psychology from University of Nebraska–Lincoln.

Her research focuses on bullying, discrimination, and mental health among culturally and linguistically diverse students; developing effective prevention and intervention techniques to prevent bullying and discrimination; and developing programs to promote mental health. She's received numerous awards for her work and has previously conducted research on Youth Mental Health First Aid. Read more.