

Holly C. Wilcox, Ph.D.

Dr. Holly Wilcox is a Professor at Johns Hopkins University in the Bloomberg School of Public Health, School of Medicine, and School of Education. Her research focuses on suicide prevention from a public health perspective, and she has previously been involved in the evaluation of the teen Mental Health First Aid program.

She's received numerous awards for her teaching and research endeavors, including Excellence in Teaching awards and the Advising, Mentoring, and Teaching

Recognition Award (AMTRA) from Johns Hopkins University. Read more.