

Erika Sabbath, Sc.D.

(she/her/hers) Associate Professor, Boston College School of Social Work

Erika Sabbath, Sc.D., is an associate professor at Boston College School of Social Work. Her research examines the occupational health and wellbeing impacts of stressful working conditions, public policy changes, and organizational interventions among helping professionals. She is the principal investigator of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH)-funded Boston Hospital Workers Health Study and of the Greenwall Foundation-funded Study of Obstetrician-Gynecologists in Post-Roe America. She is also the co-director of the Harvard Center for Work, Health and Wellbeing, a Total Worker Health Center of Excellence. She holds a doctorate in social epidemiology from the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health and the University of Paris XI-Sud. Read more